How to Take Care of Leather Products

Leather products retain their good looks and function well if you properly care for them. Sunlight, perspiration, grime and spills all can take a toll on leather products.

The two aspects of leather care you should keep in mind are cleaning and storage. Leather can dry out if stored in sunlight and can mildew if stored in humid areas.

Remove dirt or spills from your leather product promptly. To remove dust or dirt, brush the leather gently with a soft-bristled tooth brush or shoe brush.

Condition the leather after cleaning (you'll only need to do this every 2-3 months) to keep it supple. Use a leather conditioner applied to a soft cloth.

We recommend using Fiebing's 4-way care:
